

The ISPA Southern California Chapter was founded in 1978, predating the parent international ISPA organization by one year. This local chapter was established to create a venue for cost personnel to network, make presentations, and receive training.

Currently, the ISPA Southern California Chapter Board of Directors jointly with the Society of Cost Estimating and Analysis (SCEA) Southern California Chapter arrange three all day workshops per year, which are held in March, September, and December (the annual joint ISPA SCEA Conference is held in June). The workshops are available to attendees at no cost. Host organizations provide meeting facilities and morning and afternoon snacks, and lunch is on your own.

For more information about the ISPA Southern California Chapter contact anyone from the Southern California Board of Directors.
